Dublin, November 13.

THIS Day the Houſe of Commons of this Kingdom attended his Grace the Lord Lieutenant at the Caſtle with their Addreſs of Thanks to his Majeſty; which Addreſs is as follows.

To the King's moſt Excellent Majeſty,

The humble Addreſs of the Knights, Citizens, and Burgeſſes, in Parliament aſſembled.

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons of Ireland in Parliament aſſembled, beg Leave to return your Majeſty our humble Thanks for your Majeſty's moſt gracious Anſwer to the Addreſs of this Houſe: And at the ſame Time to congratulate your Majeſty upon your ſafe Return to Great Britain, and upon your reſuming the Adminiſtration of theſe your Dominions ſo juſtly delegated to your Royal Conſort, and ſo wiſely conducted by Her during your Majeſty's Abſence.

Your Majeſty's great Goodneſs and Condeſcenſion in recommending to our Care the Hempen and Flaxen Manufactures of this Kingdom, muſt excite in us the warmeſt Gratitude, when we reflect, that the particular Mark of Duty your Majeſty expects from us, is to conſult our own Intereſt, and to purſue our own Proſperity.

We are too ſenſible of the many Bleſſings we enjoy in common with our Fellow Subjects under your Majeſty's auſpicious Reign, to omit any Opportunity of expreſſing our Confidence in a Prince, who thinks a paternal Care of his People to be his trueſt Glory; and who chuſes rather to make them the Envy, than the Terror of other Nations.

We have nothing more to deſire than the Continuance of ſuch Happineſs, being fully convinced, That the Welfare and Safety of this Kingdom entirely depend upon your Majeſty's ſacred Perſon, and the Proteſtant Succeſſion in your Royal Houſe.

His Grace was pleaſed to return the Anſwer following.

I Will by the firſt Opportunity take Care to tranſmit this dutiful and loyal Addreſs, in order to be laid before His Majeſty.
